Vales Named to Volunteer Roles within Community to Aid Area Businesses

Jill M. Vales, president of JMV Management, recently was named to two volunteer roles within the community that will help support business development in the community.

Vales was appointed by Greenville County Council Chairman Butch Kirven to serve on the Greenville County Workforce Investment Board. In this role, Vales will help create and oversee public policy to drive workforce development, particularly with the county's One-Stop system that provides numerous resources for job seekers and employers.

Vales also was named Vice Chair of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce's Small Business Learn Committee. As a leader of this committee, Vales will help identify the most critical needs of small business members and focus on developing programs to help Chamber members tap into best practices and resources.

JMV Management provides on demand HR and finance expertise to small business and non-profit organizations.
